

MC Miller Stainless Steel Probe and Coiled Test Lead

Stainless steel probe and test lead designed to penetrate paint coatings etc. in order to take (bare) metal-to-electrolyte potential readings where the probe and test lead connect to one side of a voltmeter (typically the positive side) or (bare) metal-to-(bare) metal potential difference reading. MCM Cat. #32700

